7:00 am Departure from Calgary Hyatt Regency (700 Centre St)

8:30 am – 9:15 am Belvin Angus

Belvin Angus is a family-owned operation that has been in the purebred Angus business for 45 years. The operation consists of 375 cows. Mabel and Gavin Hamilton and family hold their annual bull sale the first Tuesday of March and a female sale every second October. Belvin Angus sells bulls to some of the largest, most progressive commercial operations in Western Canada. They take a balanced approach to using phenotypic and genotypic data to raise bulls that can be profitable in all sectors of the industry, and across a wide range of tough environmental conditions.

10:15 – 11:00 am TBA

12:00 – 1:00 pm Angus Central

An iconic Calgary Stampede tradition is a pancake breakfast. Since pancakes are delicious at any time of day, the Canadian Angus Association is excited to host “breakfast for lunch” and refreshments at Angus Central, the member-owned Angus office, during this tour featuring Canadian Angus genetics.

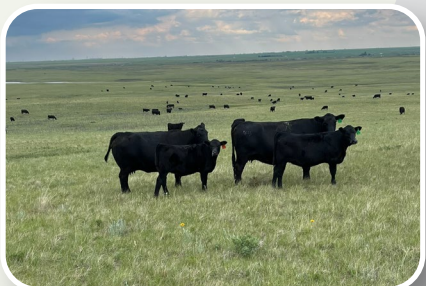

2:30 – 3:15 pm Heinz Family Farm

It’s a pleasure to showcase a successful young Angus family who just had a very successful fourth annual bull sale. Sarah and Jesse Heinz successfully marketed a set of very functional and consistent bulls this spring. They have recently established a new homestead in Buffalo Hills, Alberta and we’re looking forward to seeing it as much as they look forward to showcasing it.

4:30 – 6:00 pm Cudlobe

Cudlobe Farms is a family-owned and operated Black Angus herd located at the base of the Porcupine hills in southern Alberta. Brothers Dyce and David Bolduc, with their families, have expanded the herd from three cows in 1967 to more than 700 purebred mother cows now running under the Cudlobe umbrella. The cattle are bred with the intention of excelling in any environment; both phenotypically in the pasture and at harvest times, with Cudlobe ranking as one of Canada’s leading carcass and performance sources.

6:00 – 7:00 pm Arrive at Hotel

The Tour is available at no cost, but registration is required to ensure adequate transportation and refreshments.
